No. _____

Date _____

To the most tiniest, smallest, minute, teeny-weeny, wee-little, compact, portable, miniature, super-mini, fun-sized, microscopic, baby worms,

Hello =3

Happy 19th Birthday!!! You're a big girl now =D I know you must be a little scared to grow up, but I can assure you that you'll still be my tiniest kiwi. In spirit of continuing our tradition of enclosing our birthday letters in the same envelope you gave me almost two years ago (also, can you believe its been almost two years?), you've finally received your* letter, specially delivered by myanmar postal service!

Firstly, I want to say thanks you for always being the miniest mini kiwi that had ever kiwied in all of mini kiwi wonderland. You have been my roundest and brightest ball of sunshine =3 I also want you to know that although you may feel useless from time to time, you should know that you are my biggest source of happiness by simply being a cookie worms,

Since its your birthday, today is your very own special day! I hope you won't feel too down since I did not even come close to matching your plans last year. So, I want to apologise for your birthday only being half as worm-like, and for that, I'm really sorry.

No. _____

Date _____

Kiwi, I hope you know that you have completely changed my life for the better since you became part of my life. That's because of all the love you showed me every single day on top of all your kindness, playfulness, the way you derive joy from seemingly trivial things. Because of all that, I can't wait to see what the future has in store for us and all the future birthdays we celebrate (I promise I'll do better on the next one).

I'm not sure what else to write, so I'll just reaffirm what I already said, which is thank you, and I really mean it. I'll save the rest of my sentiments for you today =D.

Love,
Miwi